ABSTRACT

A writing-preventive device against computer viruses is electrically connected with a BIOS memory chip, a real time clock chip, and a CMOS chip respectively so as to prevent any data-writing action to any of the mentioned chips when the writing-preventive device is enabled. Besides, the writing-preventive device is mounted on a computer housing at a proper position for a user to reach and enable it easily.